

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A video signal processing section selects a display panel driving sequence scheme corresponding to the signal processing scheme to be performed on an input video signal to supply an instruction signal designating the driving sequence scheme to a display panel driving section together with the video signal on which the signal processing is performed. The display panel driving section drives the display panel in accordance with the driving sequence designated by the instruction signal on the basis of the video signal supplied from the video signal processing section.